FOREWORD

It is the hope of the management of this, the eighteenth volume of the Phippscli, that you will find this book the stimulation to many happy recollections of your student days at Elon. If, in the years to come, it mirrors for you the scenes of your undergraduate days, recalls warm friendships, and affords you happy memories of Elon, our efforts will have been rewarded.

DEDICATION

To Dr. Leon Edgar Smith,
an esteemed scholar, a true
Christian, and a capable executive on whom we base
our hopes for the future
greatness of Elon, this volume of the Phippsicli is respectfully dedicated.

In Memoriam

IN the death of Dr. Staley, the hand of Providence has removed from our midst one of the most striking and potential personalities of our generation. Rarely, if ever, do you find one man with so many gifts and such rare accomplishments. He was a friend of the poor and rich alike—a man with a generous hand, a loving heart and a magnanimous soul—a brilliant writer, a great preacher, and a faithful pastor.

Dr. Staley was one of the moving spirits in the organization and founding of Elon College. He was a member of the original Board of Trustees, and remained on the Board until his death. So far as the records show, he never missed a single meeting of the Board during his tenure of service, which extended for nearly one-half century.

He served the College as President for twelve years without salary. He was generous in his gifts to the College and greatly influenced his friends everywhere to support it.

He was Pastor of the Suffolk Church for more than forty years. Under his ministry, the Church grew to one of the outstanding religious organizations of the country.

Dr. Staley was a humble follower of the humble Christ and a faithful expositor of the glorious Gospel. The Christian Church will miss him as it would miss none other from its membership. His memory will live as long as the College stands and the Church endures.

L. E. Smith, President.

Senior Class History

IN September, 1929, Elon threw open her gates to receive nearly one hundred and twenty-five green Freshmen. Wide-eyed and unconscious we roamed about the campus getting our first and lasting impressions of Elon. The first week's experiences made us feel like "kings and queens." Soon, however, the rule book, enforced by the upper classmen, made its way into our college life. We soon learned that "kings and queens" could also be slaves. Freshman class election was held the first week in November. C. C. Howell, Jr., of Jacksonville, Florida, being elected President. In athletics and also literary work our class was duly honored. Under President Howell's leadership our class had an unusually successful year.

September, 1930—No longer green slave-driven Freshmen—we were upper classmen and knew it all. Nothing could hinder our progress now. The much talked-of depression had taken severe toll in our ranks, but those of us who returned were ready to show to the Freshmen and to the world that we meant business. Joe Doster, of Waxhaw, N. C., was elected to lead us through our Sophomore year. He proved to be a very capable leader, and under his guidance we maintained the enviable record that we had started the year before. In this year we won the inter-class track meet and were again well represented in varsity athletics.

September, 1931—Harold Ford, of Blairs, Virginia, was elected class President in our Junior year. In this period of our college course we had the Junior-Senior banquet to sponsor and our college rings to select. President Ford was very efficient in handling both of these matters. In the second semester our number was enlarged by several transfer students from Atlantic University. These students reached our campus in time to participate in the Junior orations. Our athletes continued to uphold their previous records and personal achievements. When exams were over, we could hardly picture ourselves as the sophisticated Seniors of the coming year.

September, 1932—Seniors at last. The goal which we had striven for since our entrance in college was at last within the realm of realization. Wilkes Lowe, of Elon College, N. C., was elected to guide us through our last year. Reliable and dependable he displayed marked ability for leadership. Paul Brawley was captain of the football team, and Rufus Abernathy was captain of the baseball team, both of these Seniors leading their respective teams with honor. We were the guests of the Juniors at a most delightful banquet. Senior theses were presented, and many new subjects were opened for explanation and exploitation. Exams were finally over, and we were relieved to know that we had met the college requirements satisfactorily. Our number had diminished from one hundred and twenty-five to forty-one, and there were several new ones with us at commencement time who did not start with us in 1929. The much coveted and diligently sought diplomas were graciously and gratefully received by each Senior. Now our ways must part, with each fellow student pursuing his chosen vocation, but never forgetting his happy years at dear ole' Elon.

The Class of '33

Across the span of coming years
With spirit bold and free,
I see them marching proudly on,
The class of '33.

Where duty, truth, or honor calls,
Whate'er the cost may be,
They'll gladly answer, one and all,
The class of '33.

When other shrink before life's tasks
And from them fain would flee,
You'll find them there with courage strong—
The class of '33.

Write large on honor's golden scroll,
Where all with pride may see,
Among the brightest will be found
The class of '33.

Where proudly waves Maroon and Gold,
Be it on land or sea,
'Tis there you'll find with loyal hearts,
The class of '33.

Alma Mater, Elon dear,
We sing our praise of thee,
To thee we pledge our service true,
The class of '33.

—ELIZABETH BARNEY, '33.

Junior Class History

ONE day in September, 1930, the campus became alive with a group of rather insignificant-looking folk who were promptly labeled "Freshmen." Activities were started immediately to show us to our rooms and to acquaint us with the buildings and campus in general. Soon the upper-classmen arrived and we began our climb up the ladder of our college career, with visions of many delightful experiences ahead. Fred Fite, of Charlotte, N. C., was chosen as our president, and served capably in that capacity.

In September, 1931, we returned to Elon. Not all of us who had started the year before were present, but the majority were back and "rearing to go." We were wise Sophs, and repaid the Freshmen for the indignities we had had to suffer when we were as lowly as they. Kenneth Hughes, of Elon College, N. C., was elected president.

We are Juniors now—forty-one strong, and we are proud of our position. We are already looking forward to next year, however, when we will have attained the peak of our college career. Walter Latham, of Washington, N. C., piloted us efficiently through the year's work. The evening of our day as a Junior is here. We are ready to face exams, and then, our professors willing, we will return after vacation to settle down to the quiet dignity of college Seniors.

Sophomore Class History

WITH the coming of September 12, 1931, dawned registration day for the Freshmen. Anyone could have recognized these eighty-four new, brilliantly-green Freshmen, who timidly, yet eagerly, wandered about the campus, seeing for the first time its buildings and beauty spots, asking old students the familiar questions, "Where is the Dean's office? Where do I register? How do I get my trunk?" This day is one that the class of '35 will never forget. We fell from the elevated plane of dignified and all-mighty high school Seniors to meek Freshmen, and with the fall came also the disappearance of our previous dignity, self-esteem, and privileges.

Through all our years of grammar school and high school, we were busy gathering material and laying the foundation for our "Building of Knowledge." Since the materials and foundation determine the durability of a structure, we endeavored to find the best materials and to construct the firmest foundation possible.

The Class of '35 had its first official meeting November 3, 1931. The following officers were elected: Leander Mauldin, President; Eugenia Boyd, Vice-President; Robert Rollins, Secretary; William Horton, Treasurer; Edith Bowden, Historian; and Professor Van Cleave, class advisor. "Serva Magis Quam Servani" was adopted as the class motto.

After three months' vacation we came back to Elon. The class was organized anew, with the name "Sophomore." Even though some of our classmates did not return, we were glad to welcome new members to our number. The following officers were elected: William Horton, President; Wilbur Tuck, Vice-President; Ruth Gamble, Secretary; Louise Layton, Treasurer.

Very soon the members of the class of '35 take another rest of three months, anticipating the joy of our return when we shall enter upon our Junior year, and continue the building of our structure.

—EDITH BOWDEN, '35.

Freshman Class History

FROM September to June, our Freshman year at Elon is complete. As a varied group, we have endeavored to weld ourselves into an organization, an organization on which our college may depend. But we could not accomplish this without an able leader. As President, we chose one whom we considered capable, Richard Freese, of Pittsburgh, Pa.; our Vice-President was James Box Conner; our Secretary, Marion Jones; and our Treasurer, Blair Burke. We, as a class, owe what progress we have attained to the efficiency of these officers.

Scholastically, we perhaps did not excel, but we have been sincere in our efforts. Socially we widened our interests, and delved anew into the wealth of human contacts. In athletics, we again gave our best. Toward the religious activities of the school we contributed much. Several of us devoted our interests to the programs of the literary societies. So, in all, we entered into every phase of college life.

But this is not all. An intangible quality inserted itself into our lives. Perhaps we began to attain the art of associating with people. Perhaps we began to learn to adjust ourselves to circumstances. Perhaps we began to concentrate. Whatever it may be, we have caught the swing of college life. Another year will bear the fruits of this. Another year will witness, not a class of "freshies," but a class of typical Elon men and women.

—REBECCA SMITH, '36.

ATHLETICS

"In which is given the reader an opportunity to see our games and sports, and to meet those who have proven themselves best in these contests, and those who have made these events what they are."

COACH "Peahead" Walker came to Elon in 1927, and since that time he has clearly demonstrated that it was a fortunate day for Elon when he was elected director of athletics. He has proved that he is capable of producing winning teams even when they were made up of raw material; for this past season his teams included quite a few Freshmen. Coach Walker is recognized as the most outstanding coach in the North State Conference, and with the vigor and thoroughness which he displays in his task, we are sure we shall continue to have winning teams.

Tennis

THE year 1932 was a successful one in Elon's athletic history as far as tennis is concerned. It is beginning to find its rightful place as a minor sport in the athletic roster of the college. The team was third in the conference rating and had the honor of having one, C. D. Johnston, Jr., to go to the finals in the annual conference tournament. The doubles combination of Johnston and Captain Rountree did not lose a match, and lost only one match each in their singles competition in the entire season's play.

This year Johnston is not back, but with such men as Captain Rountree, Griffin, Rising, Mauldin, and York, the team should have a successful season. Not only is Rountree playing a good brand of tennis, but he is also coaching and managing the team. He is quite a competent coach, and with the co-operation of the rest of the players a winning team should be the result.

Boxing and Wrestling

THE gym work includes calisthenics, volleyball, indoor baseball, basketball, boxing, wrestling, and other indoor games. All these are under the supervision of the gym instructor who not only helps with the games but joins in the play with the fellows.

This picture does not represent all the gym class but only those who took part mainly in boxing and wrestling. Some of the boys were pretty good, and though there were no intercollegiate meets, they showed up well in the local bouts. "Gas-house" Newsome was probably the toughest one of the boxers, while "Butch" Milligan was a fair wrestler. Most of these fellows are ex-football men, and they all like to "mix it."

This gym work proved to be a good thing, and with the co-operation of the students, the college can go a long way in giving every male student at Elon a chance for physical development.

Junior Basketball

EACH year a tournament is held during the basketball season in order to give men not out for the varsity a chance to play the game. This year the Freshman class team of Ritt, Clayton, Briggs, and L. Boyd, should have won the class championship, but they were defeated by the strong Junior team in their first game; and as the Junior team did not lose a game, the Freshmen were never able to get another chance. The Juniors beat the Freshman, Sophomore and Senior class teams as named. All were easy victories except the first game with the Freshmen.

Much enthusiasm and class spirit was shown during these games, and they were carried off in good style. Robert Kimball was the big scoring threat for the Juniors, and with the help of the other members of the team, the Juniors "went South." These class games are a part of the regular gymnasium work sponsored by the college under direction of the gym instructor.

Two groups of plays will be given

WELCOME!

Rance Simpson blew in from Jersey the other day. He has already reported to several of the football practices and indications show that he is a capable player. Some of the big 'uns say that he might make first team this year. He is not eligible to play under the rules of the Southern Conference until our last game with Guilford, November 24. Good luck, Simpson!

Humor

Minister: "In closing, Brethren, let us pray. Deacon Brown, please lead."
Deacon Brown (awakening from a nap): "Hain't my lead, I dealt."

Frank Burton: "You're the first girl I ever kissed."
Retta Newman: "Huh, what do you think I'm doing? Running a prep school?"

Prof. Snuggs to Paul Taylor: "Mr. Taylor this essay on 'My Mother' is the same as your brother's."
Paul: "Yes, sir. We have the same mother."

Elizabeth Barney: "But how can I be sure that you love me?"
Jimmy Rising: "Well, I can scarcely sleep at night thinking of you."
Elizabeth: "That doesn't prove anything. Papa can scarcely sleep either thinking of you."

Brawley: "And she said that I was the nicest boy at Elon. Do you think I should call on her?"
Dopey: "No. Let her keep on thinking so."

Dr. Powell: "The chinese get opium from their poppies."
Gunn: "Where do their papas get it?"

Barbara Chase: "I've just come from the beauty parlor."
Key: "Too bad they were closed."

Katie: "Waiter, the portions seem to have got a lot smaller lately."
Waiter: "Just an optical illusion, Mam. Now that the dining hall is larger they look smaller. That's all."

Prof. Barney: "Why should it make you tired when it is your wife who does the exercise?"
Dr. Smith: "She exercises her will and I do the work."

Ruth Gamble: "That horrid Conductor glared at me as if I hadn't paid my fare."
Esther Cole: "Well, what did you do?"
Ruth: "Why I glared back as if I had."

Prof. Snuggs: "Now we will run over the next lesson."
Ritt: "Honk. Honk."

Prof. Martin: "Sorry, ole man, my hen got loose and scratched up your garden."
Coach Walker: "That's all right. My dog ate your hen."
Prof. Martin: "Fine. I just ran over and killed your dog."

Muddy: "The best way to get the most out of life is to fall in love with a great problem—or a beautiful woman."
Bradshaw: "Why not choose the latter and get both?"

ADVERTISEMENTS

"Unusual Excellence is Never the Result of Chance"

In producing school publications, we endeavor to render a helpful and constructive service directed toward enabling a student staff to issue a representative and distinctive publication.

In connection with our new and modern printing plant we maintain a large Art and Service Department where page balance, typography and complete decorative and illustrative motifs are created and worked out.
